20 Youngstown Residents Believed To Be Under Investigation

LAWYERS, DOCTORS
HINTED IN GROUP

More Than $100,000 Is Obtained from Companies, Is Claim

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 20.—About 20 Youngstown residents are believed to be under investigation by the federal grand jury in Cleveland in connection with the operation of an alleged "insurance ring" which is said to have obtained more than $100,000 from insurance companies.

"Framed" Accidents

U. S. Attorney Emerich B. Freed personally appearing before the grand jury in connection with the case, which is said to involve a group of Youngstown lawyers, physicians and laymen who cooperated in "framing" alleged fake auto accidents.

Should indictments be returned by the federal jury, it is probable that they will charge "using the mails with intent to defraud," based on the alleged application for payment of insurance companies for payment of claims. The claims are said to have been made for fake injuries.

Guard Witnesses' Names

The utmost secrecy is being maintained by government officials and the names of the witnesses summoned before the jury are being guarded.

It was reported yesterday that some of the witnesses had been threatened, but Freed would not discuss the report.

The Mahoning valley is reported to be the scene of the alleged ring's initial operations but gradually the territory expanded until most of northern Ohio was included.

S. E. Seifried, government investigator in charge of mail fraud cases in this district, has been subpoenaed before the grand jury. Seifried is understood to have been quietly investigating the fraudulent insurance claims case for several weeks.

Courthouse Repair Continues; Await Floor Coverings

LISBON, Nov. 20.—Floor covering for the various courthouse offices, now under reconstruction, is expected to arrive here in a few days, and within two weeks it is believed several offices will be ready for occupancy.

Practically all exterior labor has been finished, and not as much skilled labor is now being employed in the interior of the building as the superintendents of construction would like.

Carpenters have completed all woodwork in No. 1 court room and painters will complete work there this week.

A number of other offices have been "brush cleaned," prepared for floor covering. Lobby walls on the first, second and third floors have been finished by painters, and finishing work is being done in offices on the third floor, the latter to be occupied by relief agencies.

The tax office, from where auto licenses will be issued, will be ready for occupancy on or before Dec. 15, it was reported today.

COMMON PLEAS COURT ACTIVE

Girl Target In Political Threat

But Daughter of Governor-Elect Remains Unperturbed

Disclosure by state officials that underworld figures had threatened to kidnap Miss Evangeline Davey, whose picture is shown here daughter of Governor-elect Martin L. Davey of Kent, in order to "force him to make certain appointments" resulted in a state highway guard being placed around the Davey family.

Miss Davey, only daughter of the governor-elect, is a graduate of Wellesley college. However, Evangeline herself appears unperturbed by the commotion that has been aroused by the receipt of the threat and goes to her work in her father's office unprotected.

MODERNIZATION CAMPAIGN TO BE OPENED IN CITY

Home Improvements Are Urged Under National Housing Plan

WOULD INCREASE
PROPERTY VALUES

Assistant Field Director of FHA to Outline Idea

Plans for a city-wide modernization and improvement campaign as part of the national better housing program sponsored by the Federal Housing Administration, were announced here today by David G. Jaeger, vice chairman of the campaign here.

A general meeting, open to the public, will be held at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Memorial building, in charge of E. E. Bower, chairman.

Mayor Norman Phillips is to open the conference and introduce Theodore F. Humphreys, assistant field director of the Federal Housing Administration.

Explains Purposes

"The purpose of the campaign," Jaeger said today, "is to enable the city to get as large and immediate benefits as possible from the national housing act."

"The federal government has provided a plan under which local lending institutions can make money available to property owners for repairs and improvements at the lowest charges ever offered for this type of loan."

"Our purpose will be to inform every property owner in the city how he can take advantage of the new financing plan and of the desirability of making necessary improvements to his property at this time."

"This campaign," Jaeger continued, "will have an immediate and most important effect on every type of business in the community. It will, of course, benefit the building industry first, and there is no industry which has been harder hit than building and there are few which are so important to the community. But it will also have a direct effect on all other lines of activity."

"Approximately 75 cents of every dollar spent for repairs and improvements go to local labor. Most of the money they receive in wages is immediately put back into the channels of retail trade."

Real Need Seen

"There is a real need for modernization work. Too much of it has been too long delayed during the depression. The value of many properties will be seriously jeopardized unless this work is undertaken immediately."

"We will urge no property owner to undertake repairs or improvements which are not fully able to do so, or unless the improvements are needed or desirable. We will urge, however, every property owner who is financially able to go ahead immediately."

RED CROSS ROLL CALL CONTINUES

Funds Essential If Chapter Is To Maintain Supplementary Service

The annual roll call of the Salem Chapter of American Red Cross is now under way. The local chapter has the obligation upon it to meet problems in the relief of emergency cases of distress which cannot be met through the Federal program. These are arising daily and emphasize the great need for the supplementary service which the chapter is in position to give, if funds are available.

The importance of other activities of Red Cross, such as First Aid and Life Saving, is deemed so great that it has been stated that these activities alone would warrant a membership in Red Cross by every member of the community.

The urgency of securing ample funds for such purposes cannot be over-estimated.

The principal source of funds for these necessary and important activities, in ministering to the needs of the community, is the membership and contributions received during Roll Call.

It is felt that the needs for Red Cross aid during the coming winter will be greater than heretofore, and generous support at this time will enable the Salem chapter to carry on its work in meeting the problems that are sure to arise.

POWER GIANTS TO BE SLASHED

Laws to Cut Down Holding Companies In Prospect for Congress

BY J. R. BRACKETT.
(Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—An authoritative source disclosed today that laws to limit the stature and might of giant holding companies in the power business probably will be recommended to President Roosevelt by his power experts.

Regulation of holding companies—corporations which hold the shares of operating utilities, and usually control those utilities—is an objective of the national power commission, appointed by the President to recommend a power policy to him.

A commission, sub-committee studying this subject is headed by Robert E. Healy, who directed most of the federal trade commission's six-year inquiry into utilities and who is now on the securities and exchange commission.

Though a legislative program has not been drafted and the President's attitude has not been disclosed, the sub-committee was authoritatively reported to be thinking along these lines:

1. No more than one holding company should superimpose on a group of operating companies. At present some holding companies are in turn held by other holding companies. The experts believe this pyramiding is uneconomic.

2. The power resources which one holding company may control should be limited.

3. Natural gas and electric companies should be divorced. In many cases holding companies control both kinds of utilities jointly. This leads, in the opinion of the experts, to reduced use of the great natural gas resources.

The federal trade commission, which is preparing a utilities report for congress, is seriously considering recommending that holding companies be licensed. Then they would not be permitted to operate in interstate commerce without a federal license. Such a plan might be used to attain objectives like those outlined above.

Hall China Plant At East Liverpool Boosts Capacity

EAST LIVERPOOL, Nov. 20.—The Hall China Co., which recently completed a $75,000 addition yesterday announced it will award a contract today to the Swindell-Dressler Corporation of Pittsburgh for the erection of a new circular tunnel kiln to facilitate the handling of ware in the decorating department.

General Manager Malcolm W. Thompson said the kiln, to be fired with electricity, will be ready for operation within six weeks.

Four hundred and twenty persons are employed by the company, which is operating its plant, one of the most modern in the ceramic industry, at 70 per cent capacity.

Other East Liverpool district potteries, including the Homer Laughlin China Co. at Newell, W. Va., which has recalled 600 former employees, are speeding up production to meet Christmas demands.

'Thanksgiving' To Be Grange Subject

Chubby Jackie is Home Again

Girl Hitch-Hiker Held;
Jackie Learns How To Get Ride

Here is chubby four-year-old Jackie Gibbons, who is back at his home in Lexington, Ky., after being missing for four days.

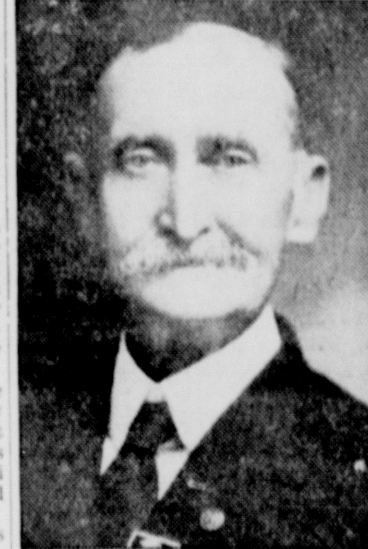

He was found at Chattanooga, Tenn., with a girl hitch-hiker who claims he followed her. She is held as a kidnaper.

In the meantime, however, the parents of the child are not vindictive against the girl and, unless authorities insist, they will not prosecute, they said yesterday.

The chubby Jackie told police and his parents that he learned how to catch rides on the highway, demonstrating by taking a stance before his listeners and waving a fat little thumb back and forth.

War Vet Is 95 Years Old

Charles Bonsall Enjoys
Good Health on Birth-

Charles Bonsall, one of Columbiana county's oldest residents, yesterday celebrated his 95th birthday anniversary.

At the same time, his granddaughter, Miss Jane Courtney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Courtney, was 16.

Mr. Bonsall is enjoying good health, reads without the aid of glasses and is exceptionally active. Yesterday he made his customary call at the post office and received a number of callers in the afternoon.

Mr. Bonsall, who served four years during the Civil war, being mustered out with the rank of lieutenant, was born Nov. 19, 1839.

SCHOOL AREAS TO BE MERGED

County Board Expects
To Save $400 Yearly By Action

Merger of Negley school district and Middleton, St. Clair, Elkrun and Madison township districts, with the creation of a new district, will be effected within 30 days, as a result of action by the Columbiana county board of education at its meeting Monday night in the office of County Superintendent W. E. Roberts at Lisbon.

Petitions, received by the board from the districts asking the board to form the new district, were acted upon favorably. The proposition will be advertised for 30 days and then the new district established, the board advised.

The move does not wholly mean the consolidation of township boards of education in the present districts and by the merger $400 will be saved annually in payroll funds.

The new board will be composed of one member from each of the five school districts, named by the district itself. And, with the creation of the new setup, a clerk to the board will be named.

The merger likewise will save bus transportation next year. There will be no duplication of routes, county board of education members said. No one-room schools will be closed under the new arrangement, it was pointed out, unless asked for.

Pass School Law

COLUMBUS, Nov. 20.—A resolution, making compulsory the retirement of teachers at the age of 65, and of principals, assistant superintendents and superintendents at 68, was adopted by the Columbus school board last night. The ruling will affect approximately 35 persons.

Sidwell Named To Farm Bureau Meet

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau, Oliver Sidwell, Salem, R. F. D., was elected delegate to the annual meeting of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation at Columbus next Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Mabel Satterthwaite of Perry township was elected alternate. This session will also be attended by County Extension Agent Floyd Lower.

The annual meeting of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau has not been determined, either as to time or place.

"Powerful" Talk

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 20.—The president made one of his best speeches in Tulpe. Miss, Sunday. He told that the people could make their own electric energy cheaper than they were getting it.

And say, by Monday morning he had the companies talking "new rates." They all say the government can't do anything toward running any business, but they break their necks to see that it don't try.

They never will find out who that Vanderbilt child belongs to till both sides go plumb broke. Yours,

SUBMITS PLAN OF ALLOCATION

Appeals To Legislature
To Think of Welfare of State

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20.—Governor George White again urged the Ohio legislature to enact a sales tax as the "only hope of saving Ohio from bankruptcy and chaos" and supplemented his appeal for new revenue raising measures with a temporary plan of allocation through budget commissions.

The governor prescribed for poor relief, school aid, help for local government and funds for old age pensions the enactment of a three per cent retail sales tax, an income tax with federal exemptions and rates of one to five per cent, and an increase of one per cent upon the gross earnings or receipts of public utilities.

Lose One-Cent Tax

He said, too, that the legislature must either reenact the "liquid fuel tax" of one cent which expires Dec. 31, or else find other revenues to replace the $10,000,000 now allocated to school districts.

On allocation Gov. White said "had the general assembly acted in the spring of 1934, a financing plan for schools and local government could have been devised upon a permanent basis. The shortness of time now requires, however, that the allocation for 1935 be one temporary in nature to meet the emergency of the situation."

"I therefore advocate that the revenues from the sales tax be distributed upon the basis of tax duplicate and population to the several counties of the state, to be there divided among all the subdivisions by the budget commission."

"The provision for appeal to the tax commission from the budget commission will prevent inequalities which might otherwise exist. Inasmuch as we are thinking in terms of replacement revenues, which with real estate taxes will largely support local government, it is entirely fitting and proper that the division should be left primarily to the budget commission, which is best informed concerning the local needs," the governor said.

Harden On Next Assembly

The executive withheld recommendation of funds to the state educational equalization fund for state aid districts. He said the responsibility for that lay with the next general assembly.

"Do not lose sight," Gov. White said, "of the fact that the financing of schools to the exclusion of municipal and county government will solve no problem in Ohio. The problem now is the preservation of all governmental functions because we must stand together or we hang alone. x x x"

TRIAL PERIOD

Speculation on the meaning of the truce between the Roosevelt administration and business is pointing toward a curious conclusion. A number of reliable commentators believe it is being used politically as a trial period. If business is unable to prove ability to make a certain amount of progress within a certain period, government would be justified in launching another reform program.

Sixty days is the usual estimate of the period. Roughly, this means that recovery would have to be evident about the middle of January to assure business of the government's cooperation under a truce. The new congress will be in session. Unless by that time business can show progress sufficient to warrant continuation of a truce, President Roosevelt will return to a policy of interference and supervision—the same policy he has suspended partially in recent weeks.

Naturally, business spokesmen are disagreeing violently with this theory. They point out the injustice of an arbitrary time limit, particularly a limit which ends the 60-day trial period during a seasonal slump. They assert that progress is being made under their truce with the administration. Some of them wonder why, if the administration couldn't bring about recovery in a year and a-half, they should be expected to do it within 60 days. If the rumor of a definite trial period be correct, these objections are valid.

It is probably not more than fractionally correct however. Whatever truth there may be in it, furthermore, must be judged in the presence of certain potent political facts. President Roosevelt is expected to have his hands full with the new congress. He must keep it from going too far toward radicalism. If possible, his best weapon of defense will be proof that further drastic reform isn't needed at this time—proof which can be furnished by business recovery. This explains why so many businessmen, formerly hostile to the administration, are arriving to cooperate with it now.

SUCCESS

Ohio State university has had a successful football season, measured by the annual game with the University of Michigan. Yet, there never has been a clearer demonstration of the unreasonableness of judging success on the basis of one outstanding contest.

A clearly inferior Michigan team left Columbus last Saturday night having received what it expected to get—a sound drubbing. The one-sided score, 34 to 0, was only a reasonably accurate measure of Ohio's superiority.

This was known long before last Saturday. Yet, because one Ohio State coach had lost his job for failure to beat Michigan and another had been hired who knew he would have to beat Michigan to hold his job, this year's Michigan game was the climax of the football season. Actually, it was less a game than a demonstration of Ohio State's universally acknowledged power on the gridiron.

The new coach at Ohio State is in debt to whatever gods watch over members of his uncertain profession. Given reasonably good luck for the next few years and the advantage of a reconstruction period which may put Michigan into a football eclipse, he should be able to establish a balance of victory and defeat between Michigan and Ohio State that will make their annual encounter just another game. Ohio's almost hysterical demand for victory over "the champions of the west" was answered almost satisfactorily last Saturday.

Mr. Davey has intimated he will follow the strange procedure of making major appointments solely on the basis of qualifications with no consideration of political service, and he probably will be reminded that although his Democratic associates are heartily in favor of all phases of the new deal they don't enthusiastically approve plum crop reduction.

There are plenty of arguments for unemployment insurance but more for employment assurance.

THE STARS SAY

For Wednesday, November 21

A day of surprising events is the presage based on the dominant lunar and mutual configurations. It is quite likely that an important change in connection with large opportunities for advancing the position, increasing the fortunes and offering more congenial surroundings and associates may be suddenly precipitated. "Like a bolt from the blue" as it were. Employment, powerful friendship or preferment from superiors may be expected, with pleasant reactions on the private life and its contacts. Such chance may be embraced without hesitancy.

Those whose birthday it is may confidently anticipate a year of quite unforeseen change, accompanied by fresh opportunities for achievement, success and happy surroundings amid new contacts and interests, both personal and in business. Employment is radically affected, while favors and preferment from superiors is shown.

A child born on this day should be ingenious, skillful, adventurous and ambitious, finding favor in high places and with powerful friends, who may assist to important posts, probably abroad.

Notable nativity: Hetty Green, capitalist.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Stark Young seems to have come into his own in his native land. When he was a struggling professor in the University of Texas, a famous English author, lecturing there, said in referring to Young: "In this university you have one of the greatest poets since Keats."

While Young has always done important writing he rattled around in more or less obscurity in America. Although he has been lionized in England and France and especially in Italy. But now his romantic novel of the Civil War "So Red the Rose," has swept him to the peak of the best selling list.

A bachelor in his 50's thin, dapper, bald, he was born in Como, Miss. and aside from his professional apprenticeship in Texas was an instructor of English at Amherst. From there he branched off as a contributor to various little arty magazines dealing with the theatre.

For awhile he was the dramatic critic of the New York Times and likely the least conspicuous of the flamboyant first nighters. Lately he has been identified editorially with the New Republic. Although he has written more than a dozen books, his last was first to make a big splash.

Most folk who have, after a lapse of years, had furniture moved across the country, will understand a recent reaction of Don Herold's. He spent $750 to have his household effects shipped from California, where he had left it two years ago. And all he got he really wanted was a set of Kin Hubbard which he could have had sent for 90 cents parcel post.

I notice the experiment of refurbishing the city-owned Claremont into a come-one, come-all restaurant and dancing place has come to temporary impasse. It is dark. It is hoped the gloom is only temporary, for this beautiful white structure on an up-sweep of Riverside Drive offers the most entrancing vista of any restaurant in Manhattan. Once the gallants of Alexander Hamilton's day beamed and courted there. In the meantime the Central Park Casino, privately owned and lifting an eyebrow for hot-potato, is gay with light, the lit of Eddie Duchin's witchery and the swish of flying feet.

The Rialto, originally on 14th street, has swung in lazy parabolas to that strip from Columbus Circle to 5th avenue known as Central Park South. The large hotels, particularly the St. Moritz and Essex, are largely filled with folk of the stage and radio. A sidewalk cafe along the thoroughfare has given added showiness to the celebrity parade and made it the autograph hunter's paradise. The shift northward almost emptied many hotels in the 40's of their long established stage patronage.

Yet in the fountain of activity so suddenly geysering along Central Park South there remains the constant death's head of the feast, to scramble a metaphor. This is the enormous structure of recreational towers almost finished when depression struck. Slowly it is disintegrating with magnificent decay and in rain storms has the leakiness of a badly caulked boat. Because of outside grandeur it has become the most famous of the sky-scraper "empties" and at night its black gloom in the surrounding building dazle suggests a great beauty with a missing tooth.

Marion Gillespie, well known for "When You Look Into the Heart of a Rose" lyrics, is one of the writing fraternity's most productive free lances. Out of the Indiana Literary Belt, she turns her hand to more than two dozen chores and keeps them going smoothly. She writes verse for juvenile magazines, travel vignettes for newspaper syndicates, words for songs, personality stories, jokes for humorous weeklies and has collaborated on a play or so. "Water on Knee," Painful Affliction

There are many disabling and uncomfortable disorders of the knee. Few are more annoying than "bursitis" or "housemaid's knee," as it is more commonly called. It is also known as "water on the knee."

This disorder is the result of some chronic inflammation of the cap surrounding the knee joint. The inflammation often follows a blow, a fall or some prolonged irritation of the knee joint, and it is common among housemaids whose work requires continuous kneeling. It is frequently the experience of football players. Despite their knee-cap protectors they often receive severe blows upon the knee.

The knee joint, like other joints of the body, is encased in a cap or sac. This sac is called the bursa. It contains what is known as "synovial fluid." This lubricates the joint, enabling the bones to move freely. When the bursa is injured and becomes inflamed the condition is known as "bursitis."

Acute bursitis is a painful affliction of the joint. The skin over the knee becomes reddened and tender and may be swollen to twice its normal size. The pain is often so severe as to prevent bending the knee, walking or standing. A good many persons fail to give the injured knee the proper attention. They resort to home remedies and when the pain and inflammation subside, overlook further care of the joint. Never neglect bursitis. Repeated injuries to a weakened knee without the necessary care, soon lead to chronic bursitis and prolonged disability of the joint.

The best treatment for acute bursitis is rest in bed. Have the knee placed in a comfortable and well-padded splint. This will prevent unnecessary motion of the inflamed joint. When there is marked swelling relief is obtained by the constant application of ice bags or moist cold dressings.

If the discomfort does not disappear within twenty-four hours, do not delay seeking medical advice. Prompt attention will prevent serious complications.

ous complications. Sometimes the swollen joint contains such an excessive amount of fluid that it must be withdrawn. In rare cases infection occurs and becomes necessary to open the diseased joint and evacuate all the pus.

Permanent deformity and stiffening of the knee joint can often be traced to neglect or improper treatment of bursitis. Bear in mind that even after the acute pain has disappeared it is essential to have certain treatments, such as baking and massage.

If you are the victim of "water on the knee" or bursitis of any joint, my advice is to consult with your doctor. He will prescribe the necessary treatment. Follow his instructions carefully and thus avoid complications.

OUR READERS

Guilford Lake Road

Editor, The News:
Election is over with. The political mud slinging is done and some of our candidates no doubt have suffered a severe headache while others were overjoyed, so the tears streamed down their faces and washed away the dirt which had been plastered on by their opponents. The only thing I very much regret is the fact that our Hanover township trustees were not in the race this time.

I voted the best I thought, but if any of them had been running for office I would have enjoyed to write NO with capital letters before their names. In this I have plenty of company, too. Last year before election they promised to put a coat of gravel on this road, if elected, and instead they never even tried to scrape it. An inspector was there to see that everything was perfect to within a fraction of an inch. Since our county engineer okayed the job, neither the county nor the township officials has paid the least bit of attention to this road. I was told twice by the clerk of the commissioner that it was up to the trustees to keep this road in shape and that they in turn claim the county built it and it is up to them.

However that may be, the men responsible for the road should be impeached. They are not fit to hold office. While ago a petition was sent into the trustees' office with some 50 signatures of persons who come to enjoy themselves on the lake, with the request that something be done to make this road fit for traffic, but even that failed to produce any results. Soon we will have all new commissioners and by another election we feel sure we'll have a new set of trustees.

The only attention this road has had for two years is through my neighbors. They tried to scrape it with their teams and never got paid for their work either. We hope that our new commissioners will show a little more interest in this road. The lake certainly is becoming a beautiful place but with such a road it cannot be a success. How those responsible can endure such a road running to the lake is more than I can understand.

Here's hoping that those responsible will open their eyes and see what ought to be done, and do it. Andrew Kuypers, Lisbon.

GIRL IN THE FAMILY

BY BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XLII

very next afternoon a small happened that showed her wasn't going to be so very after all. Just after her lunch she was waiting on a customer who came to the store for a book and sheet music for a piano. When a girl wandered into the department and began to look over the shelves for a player piano.

She laid several aside and Susan asked her Mr. Lesser to play for her. "I can't stand that music," Susan's customer said to her with an almost shake of her head. "I hate it."

If you can't play the piano nice to have a phonograph player piano," Susan replied. "I can play but not very well."

She stopped and turned her head toward the corner where Mr. Lesser was one of the pianos. Some had begun to rattle at the of her memory. She forgot she was rolling up two velocity books for her customer. She was back in the Center Street once more, standing with in front of the grate fire late night, and John was coming up front walk whistling the tune Mr. Lesser was playing. "Bye, Mr. Lesser," she called. "Once Susan could hear the crackle of coal fire and the tom-tom of the high plate glass pressed down against her arms in their drenched, holding her close.

Try not to listen to it. Try not think of him—of his voice and eyes and his quick smile—of his hands relaxed and she let of the music. She sank slowly on a piano stool behind the and put her head down her arms.

know you're tired. It must be to stand on your feet all the heard the woman say. She looked up, tears stinging way into her eyes. "It's just a piece of music. It reminded of something," said Susan. The woman nodded. "Yes, music does things like that to me. I mean that it makes want to cry about nothing at she explained. "But I'd rather be a little bit emotional like than like some of these people don't know whether they're listening to the unfinished Symphony or the Maine Sea Song!—You go and cry your head off. It'll do good. I'll just leave my money on the counter."

One night Susan went to the with Edie Elgitz and saw picture about a man who left his beautiful wife and then came back her because she was going blind. She read a novel from the Twenty-Street Public Library that told of a man and woman who quarreled and were reconciled after the had been terribly hurt in an automobile accident. But things that were miracles, and did not open except in novels or motion pictures which always have to have happy endings in order to be successful, she decided.

That happened to real people that they quarrelled or had a understanding of some sort and not meet again until at least of them had fallen so completely out of love with the other it did not make any difference whether they ever met again or not. Perhaps they never did meet.

One thing was certain — there were no miracles in real life bringing them together! Monday, the fifteenth day of the day of Sara Cullen's wedding, was just the sort of day that a bride ought to have. It was a good omen. The sky was a blue of Chinese-enameled blue with white clouds sailing and in it, and in the Cullen's yard the grass was like green and all of the rose bushes and all the wreath around the fence in bloom. A red and white tent had been set up there, and Aunt Nell had hired two colored women to help her serve the party-eight people who were to be seated at twelve little tables in the tent.

Food was all ready in the ice and on the big table in the tent — chicken salad, sandwiches tied with white satin ribbon, breads in little fluted paper cups, cake and three other kinds of cake and a wooden table filled with punch. On the back porch the freezer of ice cream had been ordered from a par because Aunt Nell did not know how to mold ice cream in the of bride's roses and wedding bells. But she declared she learn how to do it before a wedding and Susan's, or know the reason why. She had made her own dress, as well as Sara's white organdie and the dotted nets that Mary and Susan were to wear. She had cleaned the house from top to bottom, sponged and pressed Uncle Arthur's best suit, found time to have a marcel wave at the corner beauty shop and had gone to the station early that morning to meet Connie and John, who had come for the wedding.

But there was no look of the hot and hurried housewife about her at three o'clock in the afternoon when she came into the bedroom where Mary and Susan were helping Sara into her white dress of organdie so light and sheer that it looked as if it might go billowing out of the window like a cloud at the first puff of wind.

This was the great day of Sara's life, but it was also a great one for Aunt Nell, although she had not mentioned the fact to anyone. For more than twenty years she had taught and trained and prayed for Sara so that some day she could hand her over to a good man and a happy married life with the knowledge that she had done a good job. And this was the day. She knew that Sara could cook and sew and make beds, and she had high ideals and good taste in books and music. She had brought her up never to drink or smoke cigarettes, and she had educated her so that if the worst came to the worst she could make her living. Moreover she liked George Shumaker, a thought that he would make Sara a fine husband, and there was a serene look on her face under its crest of fashionably waved hair as she hovered about, straightening a fold of the airy-looking dress and pushing up the orange-blossom coronet from Sara's smooth young forehead.

"I just hope that you and Mary will make good marriages too, Susan," she remarked, opening the screen and leaning out of the window to see if the daisies on the outdoor altar were still fresh. "I really think," she went on, turning back into the room with a dreamy look in her usually bright snapping eyes, "that about the most beautiful thing on earth is a little family just starting out—finding their home and furnishing it and having children and going out riding on Sunday afternoons all crowded together into a little car and having a terrible time trying to pay the bills and—"

"And you'd better stop painting that sort of picture of marriage life, mother, or you'll have Sara deserting George at the altar," interrupted Mary with a laugh. "We'd better get moving, Susan, you and I. There are Allen and John down in the yard already."

Allen!

Susan felt as if her heart were stopping for a moment at the sound of his name. She knew suddenly that she had been waiting for weeks for this afternoon when she would see him at last. Counting on meeting him, talking to him.

"Yes, we'd better hurry," she murmured without knowing what she said.

"Well, I always notice how much more fun people in cheap little cars seem to be having than people in great big shiny limousines," said Aunt Nell over her shoulder as she left the room. "You keep your eyes peeled next time you're out driving, Mary, and you'll notice it yourself—Now, hurry, girls."

The room was sweet with the scent of sachet and perfume and the flowers in Sara's bouquet.

On the day-bed the bridesmaids' dresses were spread out—Mary's yellow one and Susan's soft blue.

"Believe me, darling, we are going to be knockouts in these Kate Greenaway things," said Mary with great satisfaction as she picked hers up from the day-bed. "You, particularly, in that dreamy blue."

Susan surveyed herself in the mirror, thinking how useless it was to look well when the man you cared for had stopped caring for you. When he thought that you were weak and cowardly and not particularly honest. . . . She looked down into the yard where she could see the top of John's head beside the top of John's, and she remembered how he had been filled with anger and impatience that last night when she had left him standing beside Wallace's car in the snowy darkness of Center Street. "Why don't you be honest with me, Susan?" he had asked her. The odd thing was that she always had been honest with him even if she had been slow and not very clever.

Transylvanians Celebrate 25th Wedding Anniversary

Customs of Native Country Are Observed As Mr. and Mrs. Fred Untch Are Surprised

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Untch were delightedly surprised at a prettily arranged party in the true Transylvanian style at their home on West Wilson st., Saturday evening, in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary.

A number of friends, after gathering at the home of the nearest neighbor, formed a wedding procession to the Untch home, where Mr. and Mrs. Untch were being entertained by their children. The procession was led by John Sharkey, minister, followed by Miss Helen Kloss, the mock bride, attired in a wedding trousseau accompanied by Andrew Kaiser, Sr., the "groom." They were followed by a company of about 30 friends.

When they arrived at the Untch home a mock wedding ceremony was performed, following which the bride removed her wedding trousseau and placed it upon Mrs. Untch. Mr. Sharkey then read the marriage service.

The honorees were the recipients of many gifts, including a large elaborately decorated wedding cake.

The affair was arranged by the children of Mr. and Mrs. Untch, Miss Mary and Emil at home and Miss Anna and Fred Jr., of Cleveland.

Out-of-town guests were from Alliance, Cleveland and Winton, W. Va.

LOOK OUT FOR THESE SYMPTOMS OF CONSTIPATION

Get Relief with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, and sleeplessness are often warning signs of common constipation. Unless checked, constipation may impair health.

Today, you can usually get rid of common constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regularity. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than taking patent medicines.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with every meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Today's Pattern

MAKE IT IN CHALLIS FOR LITTLE SISTER!
PATTERN 2072

"Course I'm proud of my new dress," says this little Miss four-year-old. No wonder, either, for it certainly is a swaggy bit of business with sleeves perked at the shoulder and trimly cut at the wrist, spirited pleats falling from a prettily pointed yoke-line, to say nothing of a demurely tabbed collar which tops the whole affair! Busy mothers should appreciate the way this frock opens down the front—for little girls will find it easy to fasten three buttons all by themselves. Cuddling short sleeves may be made with the pattern, too. Now that Jack Frost seems to be here for good, plaid wool or velvet would be both a pretty and a wise choice for the material.

Pattern 2072 is available in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 6 takes 2 5/8 yards 36 inch fabric and 1-4 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send fifteen cents (15) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Order your winter pattern book. Order it now! The new Anne Adams models are stunning and so easy to make! Designs for all ages and all occasions. Price of book, fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Today

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

YESTERDAY was November 19, an anniversary important to every American.

On this day, seventy-one years ago, Abraham Lincoln stood on the Gettysburg battlefield, and, looking over the field where so many had died in honor on both sides, expressed for the whole country its determination that government of the people and by the people should not perish from the earth.

School children are always made to read that Gettysburg address, grown men and women should ask themselves to what extent that government, of, for and by the people has succeeded, and is REALITY.

HOW FIRMLY have we established the government of which Lincoln dreamed? Do the people really manage their government for themselves, or do they only criticize and applaud, according to their whim, while others govern them? Has Lincoln's dream of government not "perished from the earth," because it never really started?

Has there ever been a time when men governed themselves? How much power and influence have 121,500,000 of the country's 123,000,000 people in their government, and in deciding what is done with them or their money? Do you feel that you have much to say about it?

Seward had a good mind, but Lincoln's brilliant secretary of state, felt that he, Seward, should write the Gettysburg speech for the President, and give Mr. Lincoln the benefit of his superior ability.

Seward had a good mind, but Lincoln possessed deeper sincerity, combined with complete humility and devotion, and it is fortunate for the world that he decided to say what he had to say on the Gettysburg battlefield in his own way, unaided.

IT IS PLANNED, Washington says, to convert millions of acres of unproductive land, worthless for farming, into a "hunter's paradise."

On the millions of acres wild animals will be encouraged to raise their families, that noble white men may have the pleasure of shooting them.

Civilization does progress, but slowly, when the richest, and an allegedly highly intellectual race, plans an earthly paradise for killing, imitating the red Indians' heavenly hunting ground.

What should we think of our alleged cousins, the gorillas, if they set aside a million acres of land in Africa for the purpose of breeding and killing human Africans?

Urges Irish To Get Ready For "Break"

(By Associated Press)

MALLOW, County Cork, Nov. 20.—Tom Barry, leader of the Irish Republican army of South Ireland, today urged that women "and even girls and boys" join the army to get ready for the day when "the last connecting link between Ireland and Great Britain will be broken."

"Get ready for the day," the Irish leader exhorted. "It won't be long now."

The Republican leader appealed for young women as well as men to join the army's ranks and train for the fight.

"Let even boys and girls join and get disciplined," he said.

Barry's section of the Republican extremists recently have voiced outspoken criticism of the followers and policies of President Eamon DeValera.

"Barretts of Wimpole Street" Ends Comedy, Drama Form New Double Bill;

FROM the superb drama of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" to the comedy of Joe E. Brown—that's the trend of movie entertainment at the State theater. On Wednesday and Thursday there's a double feature bill that's bound to entertain—the first feature is Brown's latest comedy, "Six Day Bike Rider" and the second feature, one in a more serious vein, is the picture of the play, "Wednesday's Child."

Maxine Doyle, dark haired newcomer, is the leading lady for Joe in his new film. Others in the cast are Frank McHugh, Gordon Westcott, Arthur Aylesworth, Dorothy Christy and Lottie Williams. The story is by Earl Baldwin.

Thrilling, Too

Joe, as the village wise cracker and local Don Juan, becomes jealous of a professional trick bicycle rider and tells the neighbors that he will "show" them by going to the big city and winning the great six-day bike race. He takes his pal, McHugh, with him and the two get jobs as messenger boys in order to eat, until they get the big prize they are seeking. Joe sees his rival believes the latter has eloped with his girl, stars a fight and lands in jail the very day the race is scheduled to begin. His experiences behind the bars, before he is finally bailed out are plenty amusing, but are nothing compared to the ridiculous situations in the race after he gets out. This is not only funny, but is genuinely thrilling. Twenty-four professional riders take part in the race which is held on a real racing track. In one scene alone 16 riders pile up in a grand tangle after two of the machines collide.

Stage Success

BRINGING to the screen a tremendously successful stage play, "Wednesday's Child," John Robertson, director, has succeeded in getting the same pathos, tenderness and humanity into it that were so prominent in the former production. Frankie Thomas, star of the original, is again the pitiful lad that finds both his mother and father too busy with their own affairs to care what he does. This boy is considered one of the finest juvenile actors on the stage and he scores again in his screen debut.

With the twelve-year-old boy are Edward Arnold, who made such a distinct hit in Joan Crawford's "Sadie Thompson," Karen Morely, Shirley Grey, Robert Shayne, David Durant and Mona Bruns.

Youth Rebels

It is the story of Bobby Phillips, who sees his mother making love to a strange man while his father is away. Later he hears his father and mother quarreling over the episode and hears his mother declare in her rage that "it is unfortunate we ever had a child." Bobby's house of happiness crashes about his head—he worshipped his mother. But after all there still is his father. He attends the divorce proceedings in a broken-hearted case, dimly realizing that something terrible is happening to him as he is forced to testify.

His mother marries the "other man" and Bobby longs for the time when he can be with his father, who has always been his pal. Tragic indeed is Bobby's subsequent discovery that his father is going to marry again. After a long illness, brought on by his disappointment Bobby is sent to military school, put aside by both parents intent upon their own happiness. There is a happy denouement, however.

NRA EASES UP; AIDS BUSINESS

Won't Tamper with Rules
In Order to Promote Stability

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—NRA's high command applied itself today to the task of doing everything possible to aid the new cooperative effort between business and government.

There were definite signs that the seven-man board that now rules the blue eagle will avoid any major changes in policy for the present. This was interpreted as a desire to let business know it can go ahead without running into drastic alterations that might upset stability.

Board Studies Problems
Clay Williams, recovery chairman, said yesterday the board is "making a great many studies of a great many problems," but he added that there are "some limitations on what constructively and conservatively can be done under the existing situation."

Williams denied the board was
"treating water," but observers noted congress must review the whole recovery law soon and believed the board might go slow on major changes pending that review.
Two other developments focused further attention on the new partnership between government and business. The federal reserve advisory council, sometimes critical of the administration's policies, held a "love feast" with the federal reserve board. And Jesse Jones, chairman of the reconstruction finance corporation, hailed the partnership.

As a means of putting thousands of men to work, a program of clim-inating grade crossings is being stressed as a possible part of the public works program. Several billion dollars could be spent on this —but how much actually will be allotted has not been determined.

Want U. S. or State Funds
The railroads are known to feel that federal or state money should finance this work, rather than the roads' own funds. Secretary Ickes and Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, both are in favor of widespread elimination of the hazards.

William Green, president of the American federation of labor, expressed doubt as to what "real degree of cooperation" the chamber of commerce of the United States and the national association of manufacturers will give the new deal.

Here's a different and real winter grade of regular gas that really licks your winter starting troubles.

Real winter grade Orange American Gas vaporizes quickly. That means it breaks down instantly into a spray, which fires the second your starter makes the plugs spark.

It will do that, and start quickly even when the thermometer is at zero or 'way below.

That done, this same steady vaporizing keeps your motor running smoothly without stalling. Engineers call that "sustained acceleration."

You'll want to try this real winter grade
Orange American Gas, because it will give you

MICHIGAN HOPES FOR AT LEAST SINGLE VICTORY

Win Over Northwestern Would Save Them From Painful Woe

By WILLIAM WEEKES, Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—All the football sorrow Knox college has managed to store up since October, 1931, probably is not as painful as the woe this season has brought to Michigan's once mighty Wolverine.

The sons of Old Sivas have dropped 26 games in a row and it has been a long time since they even scored. But Michigan, a short year ago the pride of the Big Ten, already is certain of the worst season in its 40-year gridiron history—and it may become worse.

For the first time since football came to Ann Arbor in 1896, the Wolverines have lost five Big Ten games. The lowest previous point was reached in 1919 when Chicago, Illinois, Ohio State and Minnesota conquered Michigan.

Hold One More Hope
That year only a 16 to 13 victory over Northwestern saved the Wolverines from being blanked in conference competition. A victory over the Wildcats Saturday is the only thing that will save them from going through a campaign without defeating a conference opponent. The evidence, Michigan apparently getting no better week by week, and the Wildcats improving with every game, indicates the Wolverines may take another beating.

Northwestern will go to Ann Arbor with no new crutches, but Michigan may have to struggle along without Jerry Ford, center; John Viergever, a regular tackle; and Willard Hildebrand, guard, all of whom were injured at Ohio State last week.

Underdogs Have Casualties
Other underdogs in Saturday's final games also mourned big casualty lists, while the favorites were in great shape. Wisconsin, which will need every hand against Minnesota, practiced yesterday without Eddie Jankowski, fullback, and Stan Haukedahl, sophomore end. Glenn Seidel, who was kept out of the Chicago game because of an injury, will be back in the Minnesota lineup by Saturday.

Iowa Crippled, Too
All of Ohio State's huskies are sound, but Iowa, which has the leading Buckeyes at Columbus, lost the services temporarily at least of its regular guards, Floyd McDowell and Don Nelson, by injuries suffered in practice yesterday. Eddie Gryboski, Illinois star guard, who was hurt at Wisconsin, probably will be back for the Chicago game. Captain El Patterson, Ewald Nyquist and Bob Peretz, Maroon regulars, were demoted at Minnesota, but probably will play.

Award Letters At Columbiana
COLUMBIANA, Nov. 20.—During the high school assembly period Friday afternoon football letters were awarded as a climax to the successful Columbiana football season just ended. Letters were given to the boys who participated in at least half of the games.

These included: Fisher, C. Miller, Lester, Ritchie, Pavlek, Logan, Augustine, Liston, Wenderoth, Bannier, Johnson and Capt. Reinher.

MAJOR, MINOR LEAGUES MEET AT LOUISVILLE

Baseball Emissaries In Quest of Deals and Rumors Fly

By PAUL MICKELSON, Associated Press Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 20.—In the same hotel lobbies, where players revel and argue each Kentucky Derby eve, sauntered the shrewdest David Harums of baseball today in quest of deals to bolster their clubs.

With the meeting of the minor leagues a day off, everything was in the rumor stage, but every major league club had a representative on the job, indicating a busy week in the player mart. Unlike other years, when most of the David Harums said they were "only looking," all admitted they were anxious to turn in a few deals.

Majors Well Represented
In the center of the major league group were emissaries of the New York Yankees, Chicago Cubs, Brooklyn Dodgers and Washington Senators, with the world's championship St. Louis Cardinals a little reticent for a change pending negotiations of the club's possible sale to Lew Wentz, Oklahoma oil millionaire, some of the rumors of impending deals involving their clubs were.

That the St. Louis Cardinals had Pepper Martin, "the wild hoss of the Osage," on the market for the best offer, possibly for Woody English of the Chicago Cubs. That the Washington Senators were ready to trade Heinie Manush and Buddy Myer to the Yankees if they can get two or three fine looking young prospects in return.

Pirates Plan Trading
The Pittsburgh Pirates were due in town today, too, with a reported fancy for high and wide trading. Reports were that the Cubs were hot after Freddie Lindstrom.

The only important tangible news involved the fate of the little world series, the fall class AA classic played between champions of the International league and the American association. The A. A. asked the I. L. to shorten its post-season play-offs, a system that requires three separate post-season series to decide the champion of that league or else give up the little world series. The A. A. chiefs insist that the I. L. play-offs require so much time that when the little world series is played that there is no customer interest. In the A. A. the championship is decided in one post-season series between the leaders of the western and eastern divisions of the league. Committees of each league were to attempt to settle the argument today.

Upwards of 900 representatives are expected to attend the regular minor league meeting tomorrow.

Salem And Leetonia Well Represented At Pittsburgh

Frank Theriault Being Groomed To Follow In Kenny Wagonhouser's Fleet Shoes

A Salem boy and a Leetonia lad point with pride to the fact that Coach Carl Olsen's University of Pittsburgh's cross-country runners have safely in their possession the junior championship of the A. A. U. And for only one reason—they are members of that team.

One of the men is Frank Theriault, Salem high graduate in '33, and who during track activities here copped the state cross-country when on the team one year and blossomed out as a one-miler.

Coach Olsen seems to be gunning Theriault to follow in the shoes of Kenny Wagonhouser, of Leetonia, who is No. 1 man on Pitt's cross-country. Wagonhouser is a senior this year. Theriault will be left to carry on.

First Year At Pitt
Theriault, making his first appearance at Pitt this term, made the freshman cross-country and broke the record in his class at the college.

When Pitt held its own meet recently, he won the 800-yard dash and took second in the mile. Theriault came shortly behind the winning time of 4:37.1. Pitt, during the current season, has won seven out of nine meets and Theriault was able to place in individual honors in those seven.

Both boys will travel to New York to help the university chalk up honors in the ICA meet there, where 40 schools will be represented.

Two weeks ago Theriault ran the five-mile course against Notre Dame's barriers in the Junior Allegheny Mountain association cross-country meet.

Columbiana Holds Basketball Drills For Elimination
COLUMBIANA, Nov. 20.—During next week basketball will come to the front among the activities of Columbiana High School. A tournament will be held which will involve 15 teams of boys, three games to be played each afternoon after school. Captains have been named and the balance of each team chosen by lot. This will greatly assist Coach Wiand in getting a line of his available material.

The Junior High school basketball squad has been cut to 15 by Coach Waldo Ward and later will be cut again to 10. Some of the boys who are making an excellent showing are: Stephens, Dewalt, Frank, Donbar, Bell, Buchner, Eckert, Burke, Hetrick, Poulton and Mollenkopf. The boys will play preliminaries to the high school games. Two games have already been scheduled with Ashtabula Harbor and one each with Fairfield and New Waterford.

Wooster Scots Remain Leaders
Wooster college was perched at the top of the Ohio football conference heap today and the Cincinnati Bearcats were at the helm of the Buckeye conference.

Wooster retained its high rating by a 34 to 7 victory over Ashtabula Saturday while Cincinnati upset Ohio Wesleyan 13 to 6 to thrust itself into the leadership of the Buckeye.

State Championship To Be Decided Within Confines Of Stark County Saturday

Canton and Massillon Involved In Scholastic Natural That Has No Counterpart In Gridiron Annals of Ohio

If the sovereignty that is Ohio ever claimed a scholastic natural more alluring more inspiring more genuinely significant than the impending struggle between the Bulldogs and the Tiger at Massillon next Saturday afternoon, athletic annals have kept it pretty well concealed. It is a glowing tribute to the gridiron prowess of Stark county that a state championship should be decided within its own boundaries, and a fact truly remarkable that two such great teams should be developed simultaneously in neighboring cities whose traditional rivalry dates back to the turn of the century.

Where bounded enthusiasm reigned before, feverish excitement and wild speculation permeates the atmosphere now, for the Saturday spectacle will attract between 15,000 and 20,000 cash customers, not a few of whom will come from cities which have no direct interest in the outcome.

A major portion of the credit for making the battle what it is most certain to be belongs to two great coaches, Jimmy Aiken of McKinley and Paul Brown of Washington. They have groomed and primed their powerful elevens for a classic that promises to go down in history as the greatest ever witnessed in this or any other state.

Between them, Canton and Massillon have won 19 consecutive games, making shows of all the strongest teams in Ohio. They have maintained a near point-a-minute pace, the Tigers having an average of 46.7-9 points a game, the Bulldogs, 46.6. Defensively, the Tigers have been supreme, holding their opponents scoreless. The Bulldogs have been penetrated twice—by Toledo DeWitt and Springfield.

Draw State Attention
The eyes of the state will be focused on the game, for during the course of their bombastic parade through scholastic ranks, both the Bulldogs and Tigers have attracted wide attention, the glittering record of their achievements having in some instances even invaded neighboring states.

The Tigers readied themselves for the championship test by trampling Niles High 72-0 with a display of aerial maneuvers that dazzled the spectators and bewildered the vanquished. The Bulldogs were somewhat less impressive in their 52-0 romp over the defenseless Aviators of Alliance High, but the fact that running plays accounted for every touchdown is evidence enough that they still pack the wallop that has been theirs since the very outset of the season.

Practice In Secrecy
The rivals will go about their preparatory maneuvers this week in a business-like manner. Coach Brown plans to practice behind closed gates with idea of polishing his attack and defense. Coach Aiken probably will continue to work out at Cook field, although there is a possibility he will shift to Lehighman stadium, there, too, to work in strict secrecy.

Indications are that members of both squads are in excellent condition. What few bumps and bruises were sustained in last Saturday's games will quickly respond to treatment.

Huff Tests Injury
Jim Huff, who carried the ball Saturday for the first time in four weeks, will be given plenty of opportunity this week to demonstrate that the fractured collarbone he suffered in the DeWitt game has left him no ill effects.

Huff, performing no better than he did against Alliance, would not help the McKinley cause much at Massillon. Aiken is of the opinion that his showing was the result of rustiness brought on by the long layoff. He plans to scrimmage him with the other backs this week, hoping that the Negro speedster will get the "feel" of the thing again.

Illinois Upset By The Badgers
(By Associated Press)
MADISON, Wis., Nov. 19.—Wisconsin's Badgers, battered into the role of underdog by a road trip that was a bitter failure everywhere except at Michigan, handed their legendary hero of football, Pat O'Dea, a legend long to be remembered by defeating heretofore unbeaten Illinois eleven 7-3 on Saturday.

The Caddies Put Up Squawk, Why Not?
(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Something's got to be done about this, say the caddies at Kenwood golf and country club, but what?

It is a golf bag on wheels which George Richards rigged up from a youngster's discarded Kiddy-car. It cuts his caddy fees to zero. He says it costs him just 70 cents, and that while his arm gets a bit tired pulling the "caddy-car" 18 or 36 holes it beats a dollar caddy fee every round.

NOTRE DAME TO BATTLE CADETS

Ramblers Will Enter Saturday Game In Role of Underdog

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Just as a year ago, when they sprang a 13-12 surprise victory, Notre Dame's Nomads will go against the Army next Saturday in the Yankee stadium in the role of "underdogs," but the Hoosiers are fully capable of taking the Cadets again if their linemen can avoid the goal-line jitters.

That's the opinion of Tom Conley, Notre Dame scout, who wasted an afternoon last Saturday watching Army reserves run over and around the Citadel Cadets from Charleston, S. C. He came east to watch the soldier's stars, Texas Jack Buckler and Joe Stancok, but they didn't play.

Saw Army-Illinois Game
Conley saw the Army lose a "heart-breaker" to Illinois a few weeks ago on a muddy field and his own belief is that had the game been played on a dry turf, affording security of foot, the Army would have won by at least two touchdowns.

"We've drawn our conclusions about the Army team from that game," Conley said. "What are they? Army has a fine team and we'll have to be at our best to hold the Cadets and win. I couldn't pick the winner. I think Army rules the favorite, but I know our fellows will be ready just as they were last year. Considering that we've got a new coaching regime and most of our linemen are green, we've done pretty well."

Linemen Get Jitters
"The main trouble with our club, as I see it, is that when we get within scoring range our linemen become over-anxious and too excited."

WHERE APPEALS FOR SALES TAX

Appeals To Legislators To Think of Welfare of State

"Ohio's needs are so apparent that the most powerful opposition to the sales tax has now been withdrawn. x x x are willing to accept the state tax in mandatory form as the only emergency solution to our fiscal problem. So too have our newspapers finally realized, with Ohio on the threshold of bankruptcy, that fiscal relief must be provided by the state for local subdivisions."

The executive criticized newspapers asserting that they "may be held in part responsible for the failure of our legislature to act on previous occasions."

Declaring he had long awaited any alternative tax program without result, he called for "every member of the general assembly to disregard those things which are political and think first of the welfare of the state. Neither city nor rural representation should stand in the way of a fair solution of our common problem. x x x"

Satisfied To Go
"If my advocacy of a definite tax program in the past has meant my retirement from political life, I am satisfied to go, knowing that I have done my full duty and that I have not shirked my oath to the people of Ohio."

"There is no time left to quibble nor to debate niceties of taxation," he said. "We must act now or forever more the just contempt of our fellow citizens."

Dispute Closing

STEEBENVILLE, O., Nov. 20.—County authorities and parents of youngsters were engaged in a dispute following the boarding up of the Daytonville one-room school building, on orders of County Supt. Delbert Woodford. Instructions for the move were received by him from the state department of education, and 37 pupils were told to go to Dillonville, two miles away, to school.

A Dillonville bus that called for the returned empty. Miss Georgianna Parks, Daytonville teacher, reported for duty and parents of the children threatened to tear down the boarding and reopen the building.

Grand Jury Quits

LISBON, Nov. 20.—Unless a situation warrants, there will be no further grand jury session until the opening of the January term.

The special session of the September grand jury adjourned last Thursday.

The September grand jury met in a regular and two special sessions. The main reason for the last session was for the purpose of returning indictments against Adam Richetti, gangster pal of "Pretty Boy" Floyd, for shooting with intent to kill and carrying concealed weapons.

A number of transcripts have been filed with the clerk of courts from lower courts for investigation by the January grand jury, these having been made a matter of record since the recent session. This would give early indication that the January jury would be exceptionally busy.

Solitary picketing of Helen Crowe at J. P. Morgan library in New York wasn't vain. City assessors put it on tax rolls, disregarding claim that as an educational institution it was entitled to exemption. Investigators found it wasn't open to public.
